

Development and expansion projects of new ski areas in Romania

Doina Maria Gingulescu¹, Pompei Cocean²

¹*Gheorghe Șincai School, Târgu Mureș*

²*Faculty of Geography, Babeș-Bolyai University, Cluj-Napoca*

Abstract

The widespread analysis made in Romania and the research carried out by investors regarding the skiable regions of our country, has led us to the conclusion that new developmental, and extensional projects are required, in the mountain regions that have not been exploited yet. The projects that are being carried out at this moment are financed by the European Union and by government and regional funds. The Minister, of Tourism and Regional Development has launched a national program “Superski in Romania” regarding the development of skiing resorts in Romania. The most important investment of this project is being carried out in Prahova Valley in order to obtain the approval for organizing the University Olympic Games of 2013 in our country. Among those that are attracting new workplaces for local inhabitants, one can point out the slope in Horea, Alba country.

Keywords: ski areas, developmental, and extensional projects, government and regional funds ski, snow.